To new inquirers

We are so grateful for your interest in serving the church through ordination as a deacon or priest. These are exciting times to be a disciple of Jesus, and the changing nature of the church means that we need leaders who are bold, passionate about Christ and the Episcopal Church, entrepreneurial, grounded by a deep faith and robust spiritual life, animated by the love of God, and have a proven track record of organizing and leading others in mission and ministry.

Deacons and priests in the 21st Century will need to be willing to explore new and innovative forms of ministry alongside traditional ways of being and doing church. The call is demanding. We hope you will find the journey richly rewarding.

This handbook seeks to give a general overview of the process that leads toward ordination in the Episcopal Diocese of Kansas. The process is long, and there are several steps along the way. Discernment begins at the local level; anyone seeking ordination should first be deeply rooted in a baptismal ministry in a local parish and living faithfully in Christian life. This includes a commitment to prayer and study; a commitment to serving others, both inside and outside the church; and a commitment to the tithe. Leading by example and doing what you teach is an important part of ordained ministry. You will be expected to speak to this and other personal practices in your discussions with the Commission on Ministry. The process is not intended to be needlessly bureaucratic, difficult or mysterious. However, a great trust is bestowed in ordination, and so the discernment process must be careful, thoughtful and deliberate.

A call to ordination is always a call by and to community, and so the process unfolds in ever-expanding circles of community discernment (parish, convocation, diocese). By no means will this handbook answer all of your questions, so please call us with any questions you may have along the way.

In the meantime, please be assured of our prayers for you as you continue to seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

The Commission on Ministry

Three tracks toward ordained ministry

There are three basic paths through which one might be called and formed for ordained ministry in the Episcopal Diocese of Kansas (one track for deacons and two different tracks for priests). They are:

1.) Deacon

Deacons are called to exercise a ministry of service that reflects the fact that Christ himself came not to be served, but to serve. Deacons lead all of us in serving the world outside the walls of the church, “particularly as a servant to those in need.” (Book of Common Prayer, page 856). It often is said that deacons bring the church to the world and the world to the church. A deacon’s ministry is outwardly focused. They are called to be agents who organize people both in the church and the world, to serve the lost, the least and the lonely. They act as catalysts for the church’s mission of service and outreach, and assist the bishop and presbyters in proclaiming the gospel and administering the sacraments.

Deacons receive their formal education through a two-year course of study at the Bishop Kemper School for Ministry. After formation at BKSM, deacons are placed in congregations for one year of internship experience. Neither you nor your sponsoring parish should take for granted, or count on choosing, the parish or organization where you will serve. Deacons go where they are needed. The bishop is the final authority on placement.

2.) Priest

A priest exercises a ministry of oversight in local parishes, particularly as “a pastor to the people” (Book of Common Prayer, page 856). The primary task of a priest is to “equip the saints for the work of ministry,” by coordinating, encouraging and empowering the ministry of all the baptized in a particular place. Priests are called to proclaim the gospel in work and deed, administer the sacraments, teach the faith, share with the Bishop in the councils of the Church, and bless and declare God’s forgiveness.

A. Bi-vocational priest

There is a great need in the Episcopal Diocese of Kansas for bi-vocational priests – priests who will serve as sacramental leaders of congregations as part of a team ministry and who will earn their primary income outside of church work. Currently, more than half our congregations are served by priests who serve on a part-time or non-stipendiary basis. In coming years the need for priests who are able to serve in this capacity may continue to increase. Individuals interested in being ordained to the priesthood who are already established professionals in their community are strongly encouraged to explore a call to bi-vocational ministry. Bi-vocational priests receive their formal education through a three-year course of study at the Bishop Kemper School for Ministry.

B. Seminary trained priest

If an individual discerns a call to priesthood as his/her primary profession and course of income, he/she will need to complete a three-year course of study leading to a Master of Divinity degree at an accredited Episcopal seminary. The bishop may offer specific counsel as to which seminary or seminaries could be best for an individual’s particular situation. Individuals should realize that while every effort is made to place all seminary-track candidates in paid positions, relocation outside of Kansas is a possibility.

Stages of the ordination process

Inquirer

An Inquirer is a person who is interested in exploring a call to ordination and has had some initial conversations with family, local congregation and parish clergy, but has not formally begun the diocesan discernment process.

Nominee

A Nominee is a person who has been formally recommended by his or her home parish for ordination as either a priest or a deacon. If after conversation with your family, the priest in charge of your congregation and Vestry, you are encouraged to move forward in the discernment process, you should apply to be a Nominee. The application to be a Nominee is on the diocesan website under the “Resources” tab, click on “Commission on Ministry.”

When your application has been received and reviewed, an appointment will be scheduled for you to meet with the bishop. Your spouse/partner should attend this meeting with you.

After meeting with the bishop, if you are admitted as a Nominee, you will need to meet at least four times with your Convocation Discernment Committee. After receiving and acknowledging the letter of nomination from the bishop, you should contact the convener of your Convocation Discernment Committee to arrange for the first meeting.

Postulant

A Postulant is a person who has been formally admitted to the ordination process by the bishop. Once you have completed your meetings with the Convocation Discernment Committee, you then may apply to become a Postulant. The application for Postulancy is on the diocesan website under the “Resources” tab; click on “Commission on Ministry.”

When the diocesan office has received your application for Postulancy and other required materials, you will be scheduled to interview with the Commission on Ministry. The Commission will make a recommendation to the bishop regarding postulancy. You will be informed by official letter of the bishop’s decision. Once you have been admitted as a Postulant, you are eligible to enroll in an ordination track at the Bishop Kemper School for Ministry, or to begin the process of applying to seminary.

Candidate

A Candidate is a person who has received official endorsement from the Commission on Ministry and the Council of Trustees to continue his or her course toward ordination. You will apply for candidacy during the fall semester of your final year of study (second year for diaconal students, third year for priesthood students). The application for candidacy is on the diocesan website under the “Resources” tab; click on “Commission on Ministry.”

Formation and Evaluation

Formation for ordained ministry requires a significant commitment of time and energy. The time you will spend in preparation will yield important insights. Broad concentrations will be in Bible, church history, theology, ethics, liturgics, church polity, and the theory and practice of ministry. Specialized courses will allow you to concentrate on aspects of ministry particularly suited to your diaconal or priestly call. You will develop a ministerial identity rooted in being part of a community that studies and prays together, and those friendships may well prove invaluable as you do the work of ministry after graduation.

As shown in other parts of this handbook, there will be regular times when diocesan committees or officials elicit feedback from your teachers at seminary or from faculty of the Bishop Kemper School for Ministry. Such evaluations are in place in order to help us get a clear picture of your progress. In addition to regular reports, Candidates for the priesthood will take the General Ordination Examination (GOE) in January of their final year of studies and be certified by the Board of Examining Chaplains. The Board has provided a helpful study document found the diocesan website under the “Resources” tab; click on “Academic standards of formation.”

Shepherding

Once named a Nominee, you will be assigned a “Shepherd.” This usually is a member of the Commission on Ministry who will walk with you through the entire process toward ordination. Your shepherd will contact you periodically to see how things are going and if he or she can be of assistance to you in your journey. Of course, the lines of communication should flow both ways. You are expected to contact your shepherd for assistance and help any time you have a question, need or a problem in the process. Never let a matter go unchecked or unresolved without calling on your shepherd for advice. Dealing with such situations early is crucial to a smooth and positive process experience.

In addition to other work that may be assigned by your parish, you are to prepare a spiritual autobiography with a maximum length of four double-spaced pages, which will be distributed to the priest and vestry. (See page 14 for spiritual autobiography guidelines.) Your priest and vestry must attest that they have read this document before signing the “Letter of Support and Commitment.”

(signed) _____ Clerk of the Vestry

(signed) _____ Rector/Vicar/Priest in Charge

The minimum financial support of a parish for a person it puts forward for Holy Orders is $600 per year. Parishes unable to bear this financial responsibility may appeal to the Canon to the Ordinary for a lesser amount. Some financial support is required of parishes putting forth a person for ordained ministry.*

Spiritual Autobiography

(To be included with the other materials submitted in your application packet)

A spiritual autobiography is different from your life story. A spiritual autobiography is the story of your faith, your belief system and how it came to be. What do you believe? What is your theology? What influenced your beliefs and spirituality? Who were your models and teachers? In other words, tell us about the formation of your spirituality and how that is continually fed, nurtured, strengthened and challenged. Your spiritual autobiography should be no more than four pages, double-spaced. You may wish to write more, which is fine, but you must edit what you send to us to meet this four-page limit. Spiritual autobiographies longer than this limit will be returned for you to rewrite and may delay your process. We suggest you save a copy of your spiritual autobiography for yourself, as you may be asked to speak to some of its content.

Some things to consider as you are writing your spiritual autobiography:

Just as we look for God's presence and action in our scripture studies, in developing a spiritual autobiography, we likewise look for God's presence and action in our own lived experiences. We reflect on the people, times and events that have been significant in our spiritual lives. We are looking for the things that have made us the spiritual beings we are today. Think about

- Encounters with God (mystical, practical, in alone moments, through other people)
- Significant events (when your faith has been tested, strengthened, revealed)
- Experiences of spiritual growth (epiphanies, gradual enlightenment/learnings)
- The modeling and witness of others (the "Christ bearers" in your life)

Tell your story. What were your parents or another family member's religious or spiritual influence on you? What messages were communicated to you about God by those who had care over you? (For example, "God loves you" or "If you're bad, God will get you!" or "Christians are narrow-minded, judgmental people" or "God does not exist," etc.) What early experiences had great impact on your subsequent spiritual journey? If your family went to church, what was the impact of your church community on your childhood, teenage and adult life? How have later church communities you've been a part of affected your spiritual life?

Finally, tell us what ways God is active in your life today. Through whom or what? What is your understanding of your relationship with Christ today? Say something about the commitments you have made as a result of your life's experiences and your sense, if any, of the Christian vocation you have developed as a result.

Reflect on all this before you begin writing. Make notes for yourself. Then begin writing. You may find that you have exceeded the four-page limit we have given you. If so, keep a copy of the entire spiritual autobiography you have written for yourself. (Your priest or discernment committee or others may also want to see a longer spiritual autobiography.) For the Commission on Ministry, please condense any longer spiritual autobiography to the required four pages before submitting.

The Psychiatric Examination

(To be completed by the diocesan appointed psychiatrist)

Please take this form to the diocesan appointed psychiatrist:

Dr. Karen Jordan
6720 W. 121st Street, Ste. 101
Overland Park, KS 66209
913-647-7990

Note: It may take as long as eight weeks to schedule an appointment. Please plan accordingly.

Also, please have the psychiatrist return the confidential report to the Canon to the Ordinary at the Diocesan Office at Bethany Place.

Required under Canon III.6.5(j)

The canons require that every person who desires ordination (or reception into the ordained ministry of this Church) undergo an examination to cover this person's "mental and nervous as well as physical condition." Examiners are urged to use, wherever possible, psychological and psycho-diagnostic tests as a regular part of their examinations. The Summary Evaluation, provided for your use, asks only for answers to certain specific questions. No other matter should be included on that particular form. It is intended primarily for submission by the bishop to the Standing Committee of the diocese, and it may be shared with other canonically established bodies, as may be required, with the knowledge of the person so examined.

In addition to filling in the Summary Evaluation that is provided for submission by the bishop to the Standing Committee, a personal letter on a separate sheet from the examiner should be addressed to the bishop answering the questions listed below. Your letter will enable the Bishop to exercise more helpfully a pastoral relationship with the person examined.

At least one quarter of clergy who are certified for a total disability pension by the Medical Board of the Church Pension Fund are diagnosed as having psychological or emotional disorders. In addition, many exhibit distress very early in their service as an ordained minister. Hence, the significance of your report for bishops and Standing Committees.

1. Did the examination include a psychiatric interview? Psychological testing? Both? If tests were done, what test or tests?
2. Is there indication in your examination that further investigation of this person's mental health is needed? If so, are you recommending that a supplementary psychiatric or neurological examination or special testing by a certified clinical psychologist be required.

Does the applicant suffer from any psychiatric illness? Are there any signs in the present behavior of the applicant suggesting in your opinion that this person may become ill under the usual pressures of clerical life?

If there has been any history of mental illness or of psychiatric treatment, is there subsequent impairment or improvement of the personality?

If there any pathology or serious maladjustment or limitation of personality that, in your opinion, would disqualify the applicant for the ministry of the Church?

3. What traits or characteristics of the applicant's personality would make for, or tend to lessen, effectiveness in the ministry of the Church? In answer to this question, the Examiner is requested to report such information, or impressions as he/she is able to obtain concerning the following matters:
 - Rigidity of thinking and particular areas where it appears
 - Potential intelligence and ability to use it
 - Attitudes toward those in authority and the applicants own use of authority
 - Feelings about men, women, sexual aberrations, about this persons' past sexual experience, present situation and expectations
 - Uses of aggression, creative and destructive
 - Capacity for group relationships and sense of community or of collective values
 - Types of situations that create anxiety and reactions to them
 - Place of religion in this persons' emotional life
 - Motivations for desiring to enter the ministry
 - Insight into this persons' own strengths and limitations
 - Special abilities or outstanding qualities of leadership
4. Are there indications that therapy would cure this pathology or maladjustment or personality? Are there indications that therapy would make for greater usefulness in the ministry? What type of treatment would you recommend? What length of treatment would you recommend?

Please return these questions and reports confidentially to:
